- 2003-2008 – LTD "Toracoabdominal" Clinic – junior doctor.

He completed his internship in the different leading clinics in Europe. He is a member of the Society of Minimally Invasive Surgery of Georgia.

- you are a heir of the well-known surgeon MerabKiladze. what kind of role did he play to transform you into a professional surgeon?

- Apart from the fact that MerabKiladze was a great person and the strongest surgeon in Georgia he had a talent of teaching and sharing his knowledge and experience. He enhanced the minimally invasive laparoscopic surgery in Georgia and introduced various types of operations. At present, we are working in that direction and are willing to succeed. I am proud to have been his student. He taught me how to perform operation safely without any unnecessary movements.

- What are the traditions and values of your clinic?

- We continue to head the same way as we headed while Mr. Merab was with us. He taught me everything how to continue my activities successfully. I actively use the knowledge acquired from him in general and minimally invasive surgery.

- In particular, what type of operations do you perform using laparoscopic methods at your clinic?

- We perform all types of operations of abdominal cavity using open and laparoscopic methods: in presence of liver, gallbladder and esophageal diseases, excretion of spleen, treatment of excess weight, intestinal tract during colon diseases. The repeated surgery of biliary tract is considered to be relatively complex surgical intervention as well as large intestine operations which have been often performed and are being still performed in our clinic.

- What advantages does laparoscopic method have?

- Laparoscopic surgery is much safer and easier for patients to undergo. The post-operation period is much tolerable. The rehabilitation is pain-less and the risks of complications are very low. Patients experience less pain during the post-operation period and are able to move. Patients do not need to stick to a special diet or bed rest which is important from cosmetic point of view. In consideration of all the mentioned results, certainly, laparoscopic treatment is better than the open surgery.

Successful Young physician from Georgian Medicine Exclusively for “The Georgian Times”

General surgeon, Doctor of Medical Sciences, member of Association of Surgeons named after Grigol Mukhazde, the surgeon of “Caraps Medline” and director of Merab Kiladze General and Mini Invasive Surgical Department – Davit Elgandashvili is known for his professionalism and European experience.

Mini-Dossier: Davit Elgandashvili graduated from Tbilisi State Medical University with honors in 2003 and was awarded the State Certificate of General Surgeon in 2008. During Russia-Georgia August war, he was working as the field surgeon. In 2013 he completed internship in advanced laparoscopic and robotic surgery at Modena Santa Agostino’s Hospital, in Italy. In 2015, he obtained the PhD Degree at Tbilisi State Medical University. During 2003-2011, he took different positions at “Toracoabdominal Clinic”, while from 2011 to 2012 he worked as a surgeon at “Amtel Hospital”. From 2012 up to now, he is the surgeon of “Caraps Medline” and head of the General and Mini Invasive Surgery Department in the same hospital. He is the member of Association of Surgeons of Mini Invasive Surgery, participant of numerous local and international conferences, author of 12 scientific works (2 international and 10 local). He has a wife and three children.

Davit Elgandashvili: I entered Tbilisi State Medical University in 1997 and graduated from the university in 2003, faculty of Medicine and started a job as an assistant surgeon at the Surgical Department where all types of chest and abdominal surgeries were performed. By the time, laparoscopic surgery was a kind of innovation and I started to actively participate in the laparoscopic operations.

A team of professionals from Italy visited our clinic 3-4 times of year under the leadership of well-known surgeon Professor Gianluigi Melotti.

The team included doctors, nurses, sanitarians. They brought the latest model medical equipment and all necessary devices which had been rare novelty in Georgian reality. Unique operations were performed in which we participated in that had been a great opportunity for start-up surgeons.

– At present, you take highly responsible position in the clinic, what steps did you have to take up to now?

– In 2008, I completed the 4-year length Residency Program in general surgery and started an independent work. After that I am in search of novelties and continue research work. Mr. Merab brought the team he trusted in. we established the general surgery department. In 2015 I was awarded the PhD Degree at Tbilisi

State Medical University under guidance of Mr. Merab Kiladze. The topic of the thesis was “optimization of laparoscopic and traditional surgical methods for treatment of gastro esophageal non-cancerous pathologies”. After tragic death of Mr. Merab it was I who had to lead the department named after Merab Kiladze which is a matter of great responsibility for me.

– What type of operations do you perform in the department?

– Most frequently we perform gallbladder operations – in case of existence of peptic and polycystic diseases. Then we commonly perform hernia operations - we do all kinds of hernia operations, both primary, and secondary. The laparoscopic operations are the visit cards of our clinic - Diaphragm fibrillation halter and esophageal aqalasia. We diagnose the aforesaid pathologies only in our clinic in Georgia using the latest model technologies – 24 hour PH monitoring (determination of stomach acidity).

We often have combined operations since our clinic involves numerous directions inter areal: gynecology, traumatology, plastic surgery... furthermore, we allow patients suffering from different pathologies to undergo one operation performed by two or three teams simultaneously under a single anesthesia which is a comfort in terms of financial sources as well as post-operative recovery.

We have operation room equipped with the latest standards equipment where we perform all types of operations using open-ended as well as laparoscopic surgeries. We also try to perform the operations using laparoscopic method which is avoided even by European and American physicians.

– What features does a physician need to have?

– In the first place, he or she should love his or her job. Every surgeon is committed to his or her work and rarely has time to spend with the family and friends. The surgeon should always be in a good form both physically and morally because you never know what you may face in the operation room.

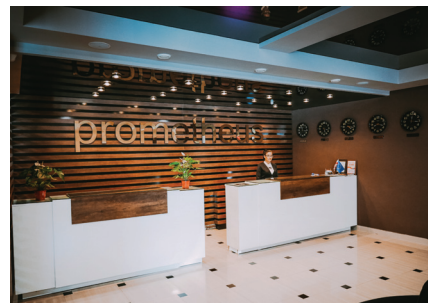

Hotel Prometheus is located in Tskaltubo, only 3 kilometres from the well-known Prometheus cave and 100 metres from the balneological area. You will find a warm, welcoming and comfortable environment and excellent food at the hotel. You can enjoy the hotel amenities, rest and relax.

Increasing visitor numbers have opened up new opportunities for the hotel. The management team has upgraded the standards of its services and extended the popular health and spa centre. They believe that guests should always find high quality services here to keep their memories alive.

Rehabilitation services have also been upgraded. There are a wide range of physiotherapy procedures available at the hotel, such as recovery and relaxation massages, a dry hydro massage, pressotherapy, thalassotherapy and parafango. The Spa centre will reopen in July and offer the following procedures: a “kneipp” bath, underwater hydro massage, the “Sharko” shower, the “Vichi” shower, the phyto bar and oxygen cocktail, enotherapy, different types of wrapping, aroma baths, a Finnish sauna, Turkish and infrared saunas, detox and weight correction programmes.

The relaxation procedures are the best way to ensure full recovery of the body and the musical evenings at the awesome lounge-bar will help you create a cheerful mood.

“It is a great thing to see satisfied guests, who are pleased to have such great holidays with us and express a desire to come back. Today we are stronger, and we know where to achieve further growth and development”.
